Clark Collection an American Woman/Veteran owned 25 plus year old company specializing in textiles, home goods, custom marketing products and more. When Covid-19 first struck, senior management at The Clark Collection immediately realized that we had the infrastructure already in place to respond to the crisis. There was an immediate demand for quality PPE, and The Clark Collection quickly pivoted to become a supplier. Clark's ability to respond was based on its (4) most effective business resources: a) manufacturing experience b) quality control experience c) logistics infrastructure and c) US-based distribution. Manufacturing – Clark works with major suppliers of textiles, industrial products, home goods and more. We have been able to rely on our strong existing relationships with trusted suppliers. We did not work with unknown supplier – but rather relied on established relationships. Quality Control – Product safety and quality control are the keys to our value proposition. When we started to distribute PPE, we immediately implemented new and even more rigorous quality control measures. We are excited to not only continuing PPE but also continuing to offer high quality goods across many different categories.
