Overview

Art In History provides a hands-on, brain based, supplemental curriculum aligned to a general mix of both individual state standards and national standards for Social Studies, English, and Fine Arts. Art In History lesson plans inform, enlighten and guide the students through interactive interdisciplinary teachings of historic events that include: geography, vocabulary, language, arts, math, literature, humanities, sports, and religion while at the same time promoting individual creative expressionism paced for each student. Art In History products supplement existing curriculum, easily merge with already implemented educational programs such as Pacing Calendars and Scope and Sequence models, and provide additional support to ensure that students are learning skills needed to be successful on their state-based assessment.
