Overview

GoSchoolBox, founded in 2017, is a fully remote tutoring management software company based out of Los Altos, California with 24 employees. GoSchoolBox provides a robust menu of options and features for tutoring companies and school districts to create customized academic support programs. GoSchoolBox focuses solely on providing a malleable software platform that allows clients to effectively manage a wide variety of support options for students. We can empower schools to provide tutoring and other academic support options to their students and collect student performance data.

Partners use GoSchoolBox to build community-centric ecosystems where students, teachers, administrators, parents, and community volunteers can support tutoring in online, in-person, group, and one-on-one settings. Engagement, academic, and social-emotional learning data are displayed in a real-time dashboard to track progress in these areas.

Not only does GoSchoolBox allow a district or school to structure and manage a variety of tutoring programs and academic supports, but we also provide them with the ability to accurately measure the academic impact of each. We focus on creating a comprehensive user interface that measures utilization and allows school administrators to maximize student engagement.
