Overview

NorvaNivel is an innovative educational furniture consulting and manufacturing company. NorvaNivel has only ever designed furniture for education. We were founded in Sydney, Australia in 2010 to meet the needs of schools shifting globally from the industrialized era to the digital era; the learning activities and outcomes were changing rapidly. Transitioning from the acquisition of knowledge through instructional teaching, learners were now being encouraged to develop a set of skills transferable to any learning activity and ultimately any profession. Unfortunately, stagnant learning spaces were not facilitating this skill development. Our team of industrial designers began developing unique furniture items that would support learners of different needs and learning styles in an agile learning space. Our education consultants, former educators and administrators, assist with helping transform learning spaces- providing professional development and guidance every step of the way. Our architects create beautiful renders and lead our live design sessions with schools to make sure the space is conducive to every learner's and educator's unique needs. NorvaNivel is your one-stop shop for innovative and transformative learning environments.
